MAKE PLANS TO HANDLE 60,000

Three Railroads to Combine to Make Temporary Belt Line through Gettysburg for Fiftieth Anniversary. Five Trains an Hour.

Secretary of War Stimson in a communication sent to the Senate Saturday estimates that $358,000 will be required to carry out the plans for the semi-centennial celebration of the battle of Gettysburg in July 1913.

The estimate was asked for by a resolution introduced by Senator Oliver, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on the celebration that is acting with the Pennsylvania State Commission. Besides Senator Oliver, the Congressional committee consists of Senator Heyburn, of Idaho; Senator Swanson, of Virginia; Representative Lafont, of Pennsylvania; Representative Lamb, of Virginia, and former Representative Tawney, of Minnesota. The amount asked for by Secretary of War Stimson will be used in transporting, entertaining, feeding and housing the 40,000 veterans of the Blue and the Gray who are expected to attend the semi-centennial of the great battle.

Secretary Stimson ordered an exhaustive investigation into the condition of the battlefield and the measures that would be necessary to provide proper transportation facilities a water supply, sanitation, shelter and commissary. To provide the necessary transportation facilities, Quartermaster General Aleshire, of the army, recommends that the railroads between Harrisburg, York, Carlisle Junction and Gettysburg be joined to establish a provisional belt line under absolute control and management of a competent railroad man. By some such arrangement trains could be kept moving in one direction by a minimum headway of 12 minutes, thereby preventing danger of collisions and delays and insuring prompt handling of visitors during the day and leaving the lines free at night for transportation of supplies to the battlefield.

Secretary Stimson recommends for the policing of the battlefield and protection of guests a detail of the State Constabulary be secured by the Commission to act under the direction of the city authorities of Gettysburg. It is advised that three full companies of regular troops be sent to Gettysburg to guard the large amount of Government property, tents, camp equipment, etc., that will be provided for the entertainment and comfort of the veterans and their families.

The arrangements for feeding the guests are on an immense scale. Rations for the veterans will be provided by 1600 cooks, and 130 bakers directed by a chief commissary, four assistants, 10 commissary sergeants and a half dozen clerks. The cooking will be done on 400 army ranges, and each veteran will be supplied with an enamel plate, a knife and fork and two spoons. The rations will cost in the neighborhood of $18 000.

The cost of the "mess kits" is estimated at $10 000, and the kits will be given to the veterans as souvenirs. Fresh meat will be supplied daily by refrigerator cars. The tents, to be supplied from the regular army stores, will number 5000, each accommodating eight persons. The tents will be provided with wooden floors, and nothing will be left undone to make the veterans comfortable. One field hospital and three infirmaries will set up to take care of the sick or injured. A water supply of 600,000 gallons daily will be provided, and four wells will be drilled on the field to supplement the regular supply that can be obtained from Gettysburg.

JAYSON SEIFERT RELEASED

Jason Seifert, who has been in jail since the shooting of Bernice Cartough on March 20, charged with assisting in the shooting, was finally discharged at a hearing held on Saturday before Squire J. Arthur Spangler in Hamilton township. The hearing was postponed until the above date on account of Miss Cartough's long confinement in the York hospital. District Attorney Robert E. White appeared at the hearing for the commonwealth and Edward A. Weaver, Esq., for the defendant.

TWO DEFEATS

The Gettysburg College base ball team lost to Dickinson on Saturday in a slow game, by the score of 4 to 3. The game was played on Nixon Field and was witnessed by a large crowd.

The tennis team lost six matches to Lafayette at Easton on Saturday, Lafayette giving Gettysburg the same treatment as the local collegians had furnished Dickinson earlier in the week.

THE Boy Scouts will hold a Boy Scout festival in St. James social rooms, Tuesday evening, May 14th, for the benefit of their reading room and printing room. Come and enjoy yourself.

WHEELS TO TURN EARLY IN JUNE

Large New Furniture Factory will be in Operation within a Few Weeks. Work being Pushed right along.

Wheels will be turning in the plant of the Gettysburg Furniture Company early in June if the present progress on the big factory continues, which it is sure to do unless heavy rains should prevent. With reasonably good weather the mill room should be under roof by the end of this week or the beginning of next.

The walls of the mill room are well up, the window sashes have been placed and workmen are hurrying along the building as rapidly as possible. The big boiler has been put in place and is walled up. The engine is expected from York in a few days and it will be put in position at once. The dry kiln is practically completed. Work on the other portions of the factory, which will be built as soon as the mill room is finished, has already been started.

The Western Maryland has built a siding to the plant and from this all lumber will be unloaded onto tracks which will be operated on trucks to be laid by the furniture company. The lumber will be taken on these trucks to the dry kiln and from there to the mill room, remaining on the trucks from the time it leaves the ear until it is ready for the skilled mechanics to take it in hand.

The manner in which any possibility of fire is being guarded against in the construction of the big factory is very interesting and danger from this source will be reduced to a minimum.

The specialties of the Gettysburg Furniture Company will be china closets and side tables while the Reaser company will continue to manufacture buffets. The erection of the joint office building on York street will not likely be taken up until fall, the more important work of erecting factory buildings now occupying the attention of the two firms.

HELD MOTHERS' MEETING

The department of mother's work connected with the W. C. T. U. had a notable gathering in the Methodist church on Saturday afternoon, of women who are specially interested in the young mothers' and little ones of Gettysburg. The plans formulated at this time, give promise of pleasant meetings in the future—as well as helpfulness to all concerned.

The program as prepared by Mrs. Mae Millan Superintendent of Mothers' Work included music and readings, interspersed with remarks and suggestions. A piano solo, rendered by Mrs. Joseph Baker and a lullaby, sung by Mrs. Markley, were particularly enjoyable.

The next meeting is appointed for St. James' and it may be that sewing on little garments will be a feature of the pastime on that occasion.

Young ladies and old are alike welcome and mothers and children are especially invited to attend these meetings.

MISS ELLEN E. BENNER

Miss Ellen E. Benner, eldest daughter of the late Daniel H. and Mary Jane Cress Benner, died this morning at 7 45 of a complication of diseases, aged 52 years, 11 months and 5 days.

She is survived by the following brothers and sisters, John C., of Jersey City, N. J.; James D., of Tacoma, Washington; Jacob A., of York; Mrs. William Leister and Miss Mary Benner, of Steinwehr avenue this place.

The funeral will be held from the home of her sister, Mrs. Leister, on Wednesday morning at 10 30. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Hanover papers please copy.

TOOK POCKET BOOK

Henry Hofe, of Littlestown, was brought to the county jail on Saturday night charged with the larceny of a pocket book containing about $4.00. The book and money belonged to a man by the name of Lawrence and is said to have been taken from a counter.

The arrest was made by Constable Gouker, the warrant being issued by Squire Mayers.

BROTHERS IN FIGHT

Shariff Thompson and Constable Wilson were summoned Saturday night to arrest a man by the name of Staley for knocking down and cutting his brother. Both brothers had been drinking. This morning a hearing was given and the defendant discharged, the informant having to pay the costs.

DIFFICULT TO HEAR ROOSEVELT

Gettysburg People who Wish to Hear Roosevelt Speak in Big Tent Memorial Day will have to Apply. The Plans.

Gettysburg people who desire to hear Roosevelt make his address before the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the big tent at Blooly Angle on Memorial Day will have no chance to do so unless they put in applications at once for tickets of admission.

It was expected that about sixteen hundred would attend these exercises and partake of the luncheon to be served by St. James Mite Society. So great has the demand for tickets from Philadelphia, Reading, Harrisburg and other points become that it has been found necessary to increase the capacity to two thousand and Gettysburg people who want to attend should hand applications at once to John A. Cox who will endeavor to secure tickets, though the great demand makes it somewhat doubtful that requests will be granted.

The women of St. James church realize that in feeding this large throng they have a tremendous task. They will have about 160 waitresses and about forty men to help. A special force will be assigned to guard the tent and prevent any undue crush and also to prevent people without tickets from entering the tent.

That Roosevelt's speech to the engineers comes in the morning is most fortunate as his main address in the cemetery will be in the afternoon and many who would otherwise crowd to the tent will wait until afternoon for a better chance to hear him from the rostrum.

St. James counts on clearing $500 for their new church from the engineers luncheon.

MORE PRAISE FOR EDDIE

Eddie Plank came in for a little more praise in Sunday's Philadelphia Record which said:

"The many disappointments his numerous pitchers are handing him this season makes the work of Eddie Plank look all the brighter to Connie Mack. The veteran of the squad and a player whom some of the critics have for several seasons been relegating to the 'been' class, Plank keeps right on delivering the goods in masterly style. It was Plank who kept the Athletics out of last place all through the early weeks of the season last year and again it is Plank who is doing most of the winning this year. His left hand cross fire is as deadly as of yore and his painstaking methods in preparing for the baseball season leave no cause for such excuses as lack of control and overweight. Plank knew what was coming and prepared to give his best efforts at a time when good work is most needed. Plank blew up in the ninth inning yesterday, after having held the White Sox down all through the game. Had any of the other pitchers been in form Mack could have relieved Plank when he saw he was in trouble, but Eddie was left to fight it out alone, with disastrous results."

SURPRISE PARTY

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jacobs on route 2 Friday evening, May 10, in honor of Mrs. Jacobs. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. S. ## ARM BROKEN

William, the 6 year-old son of William Alwine, of Berlin Junction, met with a very painful accident Friday evening. The little fellow was riding a tricycle and, being so much interested in the exercise, he ran too close to a work horse. The animal kicked, striking the boy on the right arm, producing a compound fracture of bones. Dr. J. L. Sheetz, of New Oxford, reduced the fracture.

DON'T cook in hot weather when you can get a good meal for less money at Raymond's Auto Kitchen.

HALF price sale of millinery: all hats and millinery reduced to half price for this month. Going out of business. Also 8 foot glass floor show case with two 8 foot store tables. Will sell at sacrifice. Mrs. D. J. Reile, second floor, 15 Chambersburg street, city.

PREDICT PEACE IN COAL REGIONS

Union Leaders Work For Acceptance of Agreement.

WINNING MANY RECRUITS

They Declare That to Turn Down Peace Pact Would Place Union in Bad Light and Perhaps Bring About Disruption.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 13.—Determined efforts were put forth at several meetings of the miners to secure backing for National President John P. White and his three district chiefs for the convention which opens here tomorrow.

The conservative element has buckled on its fighting armor, and at the various meetings the danger of turning down the national and district officers was pointed out. The movement won recruits to the cause which the national and district presidents will espouse when it comes time for the miners to say whether they will or will not stand by the agreement which the sub-committee accepted in its deliberations with a sub-committee of the operators.

Many of the miners' leaders now see that to turn down the proposition which their leaders accepted would be putting the organization in a bad light and perhaps bring about its disruption.

Much talk hinged on the work of the Industrial Workers of America, which is a rival organization of the miners' union. The conservative leaders declared that to turn down the report of the sub-committee and reject the tentative offer would be to give the new organization a lease of life and help foster a movement which is endeavoring to wipe out the present organization. The work of the missionaries sent among the men set the miners in general to thinking. The plain facts were put up to them, and when the meetings broke up there were many frank admissions that the committee had perhaps done its best and that the best thing after all might be to accept the agreement for a term of four years.

Leader Predicts Peace.

Scranton, Pa., May 13.—Sentiment has completely veered hereabouts on the question of the acceptance or rejection of the tentative agreement for settling the hard coal suspension. Most significant of many developments of the past few days is a statement from one of the prominent union officials, who has been fighting the acceptance of the agreement in its present form, that the delegates to the Wilkes-Barre convention will vote for acceptance.

There was no violence reported from any part of the upper end of the region. Lewis Brobovich, the boy shot by Trooper George Dace, in Dickinson City, is still alive and slightly improved.

Many Favor Settlement.

Pottsville, Pa., May 13.—A number of delegates were elected to the Wilkes-Barre convention in this county, three-fourths of them being in favor of the acceptance of the terms offered by the operators. After an all-day session in the Lansford Opera House six delegates, instructed to accept the agreement, were elected, the Americans voting for and the foreigners against.

DARROW TRIAL THIS WEEK

McNamara Attorney to Face Bribery Charge in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 13.—Rivaling in interest the famous case of the McNamara brothers was the trial on Wednesday on a charge of bribery of Clarence Darrow, famous the world over as a lawyer and labor leader.

Not the least interesting phases of the case, that promises to be as dramatic as it is unique, are the facts that Darrow will assist in his own defense, and that the testimony expected to convict him was obtained by means of a dictaphone.

It is asserted by the prosecution that Darrow, while in conversation with John R. Harrington, an attorney, admitted his guilt in trying to bribe a juror in the McNamara case, and that his admissions were taken down by shorthand reporters manipulating this dictaphone.

One of the strongest witnesses against the accused man will be Bert Franklin, who declares that Darrow directed him to bribe the jurors, and an attempt will be made to prove that a short time after Franklin had paid out $500 Darrow met the bribed man and Franklin.

Forty Years For Murder.

Waxahatche, Texas, May 13.—J. D. Manley, the national guardman who ran a bayonet through Louis Richenstein in Dallas during the visit of President Taft in October, 1910, was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to forty years in jail.

Onion Bed Yields Treasure.

Kent, O., May 13.—Charles Ramsey colored, unearthed a box containing $500 in gold coin and paper while spading for onions here. His father, Jonathan Ramsey, a former slave, had buried it twenty years ago and later died in the Sandusky soldiers' home.

GEN. FRANCISCO GOMEZ.

Provisional President Cast Aside by Mexican Rebels.

© 1911, by American Press Association.

GEN. GOMEZ ABDICATES

Provisional President of Mexican Revolutionists Flees.

Juarez, Mex., May 13.—General Pascual Orozco holds the balance of power in the Mexican revolution.

Though Orozco, with 700 men, is facing a federal army that is pressing him back toward the border and the outcome of the battle is uncertain, the developments of the day, chiefly the abdication of Emilio Vasquez Gomez, of the provisional presidency, which he assumed a week ago, indicate that the money interests behind Mexico's present disturbances must continue to court Orozco.

Gomez fled across the Rio Grande to United States territory.

Reliable information has it that the men who once surrounded former President Diaz had been financing the Orozco movement with other capitalists.

AIRSHIP WILL CARRY U. S. MAIL 200 MILES

Will Fly From New York to Washington.

Washington, May 13.—Paul Peck, a well-known young aviator of this city, will attempt to carry 100 pounds of mail matter from New York to Washington on May 22.

The postmaster general's order requires that the mail shall be carried by a sworn carrier and without expense to the government. The number of the route will be known as 607,062. The machine after its departure from New York will fly a pennant bearing the words "U. S. Mail."

A biplane will be used for the experiment. It was shipped to New York last Monday. It is the invention of Dr. W. W. Christmas, a surgeon of Washington, and is built on the cantilever principle, differing in construction entirely from the biplanes of this and other countries.

Peck believes he can fly from New York to Washington in four hours. He plans to land in Pennsylvania avenue directly in front of the postoffice department. Great interest will be centered in this flight because it will be the longest aerial mail route ever attempted by this or any other government.

FAMILY OF 12 SUICIDE

Ended Their Lives Because of Financial Troubles.

Berlin, May 13.—The suicide of a whole family, comprising the father, mother and nine children and the latter's grandmother, is reported from Bucharest.

First the two sons, who were the mainstay of the family, suicided owing to financial troubles, and then the remainder of the family, having stupefied themselves with beer, retired to the garret, where they slept under the influence of charcoal fumes. The next morning all were dead.

GIRL DIES FROM BEATING

Sweetheart Is Under Arrest on Charge of Murder.

Johnstown, Pa., May 13.—Miss Fern Davis, aged eighteen years, the pretty Johnstown high school student, who was alleged to have been beaten by her sweetheart, George Henderson, in the latter's home in Conemaugh last Wednesday night, died without regaining consciousness.

Henderson is under arrest upon a charge of murder.

Find Body of Duck Hunter.

Duncannon, Pa., May 13.—The body of a man, found in the Susquehanna river two miles south of here, was identified as that of Herman Dorman, of Watts township, who was drowned when his boat capsized while hunting ducks at Montgomery Ferry several weeks ago.

TAFT STARTS ON OHIO TRIP

He Plans a New Line of Attack on Roosevelt.

WILL BE HIS HARDEST TOUR

The President Will Make Sixty-three Speeches and Have Only Two Days of Rest.

Washington, May 13.—President Taft left Washington for Marietta, O., where today he will begin a final campaign of speechmaking in his home state before the presidential primaries there, May 21.

Although none of the speeches that Mr. Taft will make on his ten-day tour of the state were completed when he left the capital, data for many of them was taken aboard his private car.

Final conferences with the Taft leaders in Washington developed that the president will probably attack Colonel Theodore Roosevelt along new lines on his Ohio trip. It was said that Mr. Roosevelt's position in the United States Steel corporation's absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company would be one of the criticisms by Mr. Taft.

Close friends of the president do not conceal their deep interest in his Ohio trip. On the result of the primaries there some of them believe may depend the future course of the president in his fight for renomination. Mr. Taft was told on his visit to Ohio last week that he must spend more than a week there in active campaigning.

The president's tour will be one of the hardest he has made since he entered the White House. Sixty-three speeches already are scheduled and he will have an opportunity to rest during the ten days only on Thursday in Cleveland and next Sunday, when he will be the guest of his brother, C. P. Taft, in Cincinnati.

Mr. Taft will campaign up to the night before the primaries, making his last speech in Dayton on May 20. He will vote the next day in Cincinnati and leave that city for Washington late in the afternoon.

TAFT APPEALS TO WOMEN

Asks Their Vote on Achievements of His Administration.

Washington, May 13.—A president of the United States has issued his first direct appeal for women's votes in a contest for renomination.

Before leaving Washington on his campaign trip to Ohio President Taft made public an appeal that he has sent to the men and women Republicans of California for support in the primaries tomorrow.

The president emphasized his claim to the women's vote by citing among the achievements of his administration the creation of the children's bureau and the appointment of Miss Julia C. Lathrop, "one of the able women of America," as its head.

The voting of the women in this contest will be watched with a good deal of interest. It is the first time they have taken part in a presidential contest in California, and their participation introduces an uncertain element into the situation.

LA FOLLETTE SPURNS OFFER

Promised Succession to Roosevelt For Support, Speaker Charges.

Sacramento, Cal., May 13.—Senator Robert M. La Follette was offered, and refused, assurance that if he would throw his support to Colonel Roosevelt in the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, Roosevelt in turn would name La Follette as his successor, according to Gilbert E. Roe, of New York, La Follette's former law partner, who spoke in Sacramento on "The true story of the desertion of La Follette."

Mr. Roe did not mention Roosevelt in his account of the affair.

OFF FOR AFRICA TO WED

Girl Travels Far to Marry Her Sweetheart.

New York, May 13.—Seldom before were there more flowers scattered over a pier and on shipboard than were seen when the Koenig Albert steamed away with Miss Elizabeth Ladd, daughter of the one-time governor of Rhode Island, on board, who is bound for a Far East port to be wedded by the man to whom she has been engaged for two years.

Miss Ladd will go to Port Said and then travel inland to Lake Victoria, Nyanza, where she will meet and become the bride of Dr. Matthew McConnell, who is in the British East India service. After the marriage she will remain there until the physician's commission expires.

Miss Ladd met Dr. McConnell in London a little more than two years ago, and they became engaged soon afterward.

Atwater Flies in Japan.

Yokohama, Japan, May 13.—W. B. Atwater, of New York, gave a demonstration in a Curtiss hydro-aeroplane before a large gathering of naval officers and many other prominent persons, including Charles Page Bryan, United States ambassador to Japan, and the Japanese minister of marine, Vice Admiral Baron Minoru Saito. The flights were successful.

TO PROTECT DAINY HANDS

House Gloves So Useful That It Is Simply Folly for One to Be Without Them.

Useful house gloves of the nature shown in our sketch are among those things that may quite easily be made in spare moments from almost any remnants of thick and strong material, for preference soft wash-leather. They are fingerless, and may be cut out in two pieces, sewn together at the edges, and then turned inside out before being worn.

At the wrist a small strap of elastic is sewn, and here the edge of the material is bound with narrow braid.

To obtain a pattern by which the gloves may be cut out, a simple plan is to place one hand upon a piece of paper, with the fingers together and the thumb slightly apart, and then draw a line, at a distance of about an inch, entirely round the hand; this will give the shape in which the material should be cut out.

For cold work, such as cleaning the brass on a front door, etc., very warm gloves can be made by covering the backs with fur, and any old remnant of fur may be used for this purpose, so only pieces will be required.

CHOOSE THE BEST IN VOGUES

Not Necessary to Go to Extremes, but Something in All Is Worth Adopting.

The woman who makes occasion and individuality her study, views without alarm the battle of the modes which is raging now. She knows that the pannier toilet has met with an encouraging reception and that the directoire vogue is attracting much attention. She realizes full well that in every vogue that appears there will be something for her, for we live in an age of adaptation.

The panniers of the pannier toilet are absolutely accommodating, for instead of being bunched upon the hips the draperies descend to the hem of the gown and are even seen at the back of it turned up and caught beneath a handsome ornament.

If all the characteristics of the directoire models do not suit her, the woman who relies upon her dressmaker's cleverness will rest assured that some of them will be found that will enhance her good points.

The characteristic collar rounded at the back and made high in the nape of the neck, the sharp points of the front revers, the simulated pockets on the basque, the handsome buttons, and, above all, the lace ruffles at the wrists and the choker may be applicable to her requirements.

LITTLE DAINITIES FOR BABY

Many and Varied Are the Pretty Things Offered for Infantile Delectation.

Fascinating dainty afghans for the baby's carriage are of white handkerchief linen. First a strip of the material is cut into three-quarter wide by one and a half yard long proportions, then a half yard of the length is turned back from what is to be the upper end of the spread. This turnover is daintily embroidered in white, and trimmed at either end with huge bows of pink or blue satin ribbon, the lower end is rather more closely hand-embroidered and finally the entire afghan, including the folded over edge, is bordered with wide Cluny, put on flatly.

Macramé lace makes a substantial and most effective afghan, of appearance similar to those of handkerchief linen, but instead of folding over the top of a yard and a half long strip of the macramé all-over, the apparent turn-back velle coarse unbleached net, and to this is attached the under section, after which the macramé edging is flatly sewed upon the sides of the entire spread.

Embroidered Ratine.

The newest additions to the spring's embroideries are the embroidered cotton ratine and the embroidered agarie. The embroidery, rather heavy, is done in a mercerized thread on a ratine or agarie so light in weight as to be somewhat transparent.

They are to be had in white, in ecru and in finely striped effects, combining dark blue, black, light blue, pink, or lavender with white. These embroideries are not only remarkably effective, but are practical as well, for they launder perfectly and hold their shape and color.

How to Wash a Silk Blouse.

When washing silk blouses never rub soap on them or rub the silk between the hands. Use soapsuds and put in a little methylated spirits into the last rinsing water, as this gives a gloss to the silk. For tussore silk use bran water in place of soap.

A pound of bran should be well boiled in two quarts of water, strained, and used for both washing and rinsing water. One part of water to three parts of the bran mixture will be found most effective.

For Individual Pies.

I use my muffin pans for making individual pies, lining each one with pastry, and proceed as for a large pie. They bake beautifully and look dainty when served individually.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Kitchen Hint.

You who find it difficult to cut up a rough-skinned pumpkin will find the kitchen or woodhouse saw the most convenient article for the purpose, as it is superior to the sharpest knife and far less dangerous.

SON OF JOSEPH SMITH NEW LEADER OF CHURCH

In a signed communication to the Salt Lake Herald of Lamoni, Ia., one of the principal organs of the Reorganized Latter Day Saints' church, Joseph Smith of Independence, who organized that church and has been its president more than half a century, definitely designates his son, Frederick M. Smith, of Independence, as his successor. The son is to assume the office of the presidency whenever from any cause the father shall find it necessary to vacate that position.

In that way President Smith confirms a "revelation" which was delivered to the general conference in Independence six years ago.

Frederick M. Smith, grandson of Prophet Joseph Smith and son of the head of the Lamoni branch of the church, was graduated from the school of law and the school of liberal arts at the University of Kansas. He has been an active advocate of reform in criminal law procedure and has been honored by membership in the Academy of Political Science of New York city.

The future leader of the Reorganized Latter Day Saints' church is thirty-eight years old. In 1902 he was made first counselor to his father and since then much of the work of the presidency has been performed by him.

Frederick Smith at times has started propaganda to convert the Mormons of Utah to the first principles of the church, contending that Brigham Young had led them away from those principles and into polygamy, commercialism and political interference. An uncle, Joseph F. Smith, has been at the head of the Utah Mormon church since the death of President Lorenzo Snow.

President Joseph Smith of Independence is nearly eighty-one years old.

Got His Hair.

"Can I get any work around here?" said Rastus Johnson, safe in the knowledge that there was not any.

"Yes, I want you to collect a bill for me from Mr. Sawyer, the lawyer. He has owed me this bill of $20 for twenty years. If you can get the money I will give you half."

Old Rastus went to the business place of Mr. Sawyer and found him among a group of clients.

"Mr. Sawyer," said he, "Mr. Jones done told me you owed him twenty dollars for about a hundred years."

"You idiot," said Sawyer, coming over to him, "don't you see you are ruining my business? Here's a ten dollar bill, now go on."

Rastus went back to the merchant and was asked if he got anything.

"Well, sub, I got mah half, sub, but you better watch when you go after y's, he's right hot over it."

Kid Petticoat for Motorists.

At this season of the year when motorists are so popular and the weather so uncertain it is of the greatest importance for the women enjoying this delightful pastime, to be lightly and yet warmly dressed.

A new petticoat has been invented for motor wear, which is very practical and warm and takes up little room. This is of smooth knit nearly fitting over the hips and carried out in white or any pale shade. By way of trimming it has button-holed and scalloped edges, or, for those who prefer it, a deep hem of satin to match.

Eastern Hip Draperies.

Among the many oriental features that have been retained in the fashions is the one of folding cloth around the hips in a snug manner. For a while the fashion went out, but now it has increased in favor. Tunics of all kinds are wrapped about the waist and hips and crossed in front, where they are stitched down or tied into a knot, according to their fabric.

The new skirts have hip yokes on them, which are widely lapped at the left side, and this is one of the many expressions of the same idea.

Taffeta Ribbons.

The vogue of taffeta has brought out new changeable taffeta ribbons in blue and green, blue and yellow, blue and red and a multitude of other combinations. These are fringed at the edges in the brighter color.

Cucumber Salad.

Those who are fond of gelatine will like a cucumber salad made by placing thin slices of cucumber and a small quantity of chopped celery in a clear white jelly, serving on lettuce leaves and garnishing with broken nuts. Mayonnaise or a French dressing is good with this.

WATER CAKE RECIPES

DELICIOUS CONFECTIONS MADE WITHOUT MILK OR CREAM.

Sponge Cakes Made With Hot Water
Familiar Example of This Kind of Cooking—Cookies and Spice Cakes.

There are many delicious kinds of cake that may be prepared with water instead of milk or cream, and in the absence of the latter such recipes are very useful. Hot water sponge cakes are a familiar example of this kind. Recipes for black molasses cake and cookies and also spice cakes rich with fruit often call for hot or cold water.

The following is a Washington pie that calls for water instead of milk: Beat three eggs light and fold a cupful of sifted powdered sugar through them, then fold in one cupful and a half of flour, sifted several times with a teaspoonful of soda and two of cream of tartar. Moisten the dough with two tablespoonfuls of cold water and flavor it with lemon extract. Bake in two layer tins after greasing them with a little very pure fat. The housewife who offers this recipe does not use butter to grease her cake tins because of the slight salty quality in it, which she considers detrimental to the delicate quality of the cake. When the cake is baked let it stand in the tins, and when cool split open each layer, thus making four layers. Four layers of this kind will make a much softer and more delicate cake than if they had been baked in four layer tins, because there is not so much hard crust. Granulated sugar may be used in the cake if the powdered sugar is not at hand.

For the cream filling mix a tablespoonful of cornstarch with a little cold milk, just enough to dissolve it; then add an egg and beat the whole into half a pint of boiling milk, stirring the milk rapidly to prevent curdling. When all has become a smooth custard, beat in half a cupful of sugar and a piece of butter the size of a walnut. Spread the mixture, after flavoring with lemon rind (grated), over three of the layers and then place together in the usual way, with the fourth layer on top of all. This makes a moist and delicate loaf with four thin layers of the cake and three layers, almost equal in thickness, of the cream.

The following is a recipe for a white cake with water instead of milk: Cream a liberal quarter of a cupful of butter with a cupful of sugar. Moisten it with half a cup of water and stir the whole into one cupful and a half of pastry flour sifted several times with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Fold in the whites of two eggs whipped to a very stiff froth.

To Remove Ink Stains.
Ink stains on cotton, silk or woolen fabrics may be removed with turpentine by saturating the spots for several hours then rubbing out, leaving neither color nor texture injured; but in the case of the cream cashmere coat which it is not desired to wash, it will be best for you to use salt and lemon juice. Fold a pad of blotting paper beneath the stain, touch the spot with lemon juice, and immediately put on fine salt; leave this for a time then brush off and treat again in the same way when the stain will be found very faint. Rub the next application well into the fabric with a soft clean cloth and the final traces will disappear. Touching the stains lightly with javelle water or solution of chloride of lime will also bleach the ink, if of the common kind, but must touch the stained portion only. Sponge off lightly with a damp cloth and press when the stain is removed.

Roast Duck.
Roast duck is considered quite nourishing, healthful and palatable. It is cheaper than beef or pork; costs over one-half less and with dressing and a nice sauce is fit for a king.

623,262 CONVERSIONS IN M. E. MISSIONS

Board Reports Work of Last Four Years.

Minneapolis, May 13.—"This Board began its work four years ago without a Sunday school missionary in any field," was the opening statement in the report of the board of Sunday schools, presented to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"It has sent out many missionaries into all parts of the United States and into other lands. As a result of such extension work, the following facts are noted," the report continued: "New schools established, 1128; enrollment in these schools, 42,000; church organizations resulting, 294; new churches actually built, 17; value of these churches, $229,650. The spiritual results of the work for the four years ending in 1912 is 623,262 conversions."

The enrollment of pupils, officers and teachers in 1912, in Methodist Episcopal Sunday schools is 4,003,410. "It is the age of the child," says the report. "It is the era of the Sunday school. The Sunday school of tomorrow will be a new institution. The church that appreciates and utilizes the age spirit holds the future."

DIVORCE FROM COLD FEET

Lean, Chilly Little Husband Loses Fat and Warm Wife.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 13.—Because John G. Wilfer, a wisp of a man weighing 120 pounds, a prominent merchant of Hazelwood, defiantly and vengefully placed his cold feet on his 300-pound buxom wife's warm back, after he had returned home from his business and found no fire burning in the bedroom, Judge Cohen, in common pleas court, granted Anne M. Wilfer an absolute divorce.

At the hearing of the case Mrs. Wilfer recited a long story of abuse at the hands of her husband. She claimed that for ten years he had abused her in various ways, such as "dragging her downstairs by the hair," "beaten her up," "spit tobacco juice on the table and her feet," "pushed a revolver under her nose and yelled 'Smell that!'" Yet all these indignities, Mrs. Wilfer claimed, paled into insignificance in comparison with "placing his ice-cold feet on her warm back."

Wilfer claimed that all their troubles were due to his mother-in-law, who came to live with her daughter, and immediately attempted to assume supervision of his life and the household. Because he would not sign a paper placing his wife's property, valued at $50,000, in trust, Wilfer says his mother-in-law became a disturber and a menace to his home.

Six-Year-Old Lad Kills Sister.

Pine Grove, Pa., May 13.—In a spirit of play, Elmer Wise, six years old, son of Miles Wise, of Suedburg, shot his eight-year-old sister, Earline, with his father's shotgun during the absence of the parents. The shot penetrated the breast, killing her instantly.

Cattle Better Off Than Paupers.

Pottsville, Pa., May 13.—The grand jury reported to court that the pauper inmates at the old stone building at Schuylkill Haven have less accommodations than the cattle in the county barns.

Resourcefulness.

It was Tim's first trip to town. Nevertheless, he strolled along the streets with an assumed swagger of having "been there before."

A bunch of bananas hanging in a shop window claimed his attention presently. He paused, studying it in wonderment; but he couldn't quite place it somehow, so turning to a town youth, also standing in front of the window, he said:
"Yuh all raise sweet taters down

RICHESON'S FATE UP TO ALIENISTS

Experts Say Slayer's Body Is Insensitive to Pain.

EXAMINATION NOT ENDED

Preacher-Murderer's Hope For Commutation of Sentence Depends Upon Report of Experts.

Boston, May 13.—This week will be fateful for Clarence V. T. Richeson. Some time during the next few days, probably on Wednesday, his future will be determined by the eight members of the executive council, who will decide whether there is any merit in his petition for the commutation of the death sentence imposed upon him for the murder of Avis Linnell, in case the alienists find the prisoner is or has been insane. He is sentenced to be electrocuted during the week beginning May 15.

A lunacy commission of Governor Foss' selection—Dr. Henry R. Siedman, of Brookline, chairman of the board of trustees of the Taunton Insane hospital; Dr. George T. Tuttle, superintendent of the McLean Insane hospital, and Dr. Henry P. Frost, superintendent of the Boston State hospital—subjected Richeson to a rigid examination that consumed nearly two hours.

It became evident that the trio of experts were not entirely satisfied as to the mental condition of their subject, for they will further examine him, and it is not altogether improbable that still further investigation into the prisoner's mental status will be continued.

The strongest point indicative of possible insanity was the discovery by the alienists that many parts of Richeson's body are insensitive to the prick of a gold pin.

The examination was most searching, and through it all Richeson appeared eager to answer any and all questions. He heard the name of the murdered girl spoken without a tremor, and he heard without the slightest display of emotion allusions made to Miss Violet Edmonds.

He knew that the experts were studying his every movement and utterance, but he appeared cool and calm. Only occasionally did he change his position and then but to swing one leg over the other.

For the most part he leaned well back in his chair and searched the faces of his examiners. Dr. O. G. Cilley, the jail physician, who has had more opportunity than any one else to observe the condemned man, said:

"I am willing to swear before any court that Richeson is as sane as I am. I could not consider myself capable of holding my position if I were not able to judge whether a man is sane or insane."

According to well known authorities, even though the clergyman escape the death chair temporarily on the ground of insanity at the present time, he may still be executed for the crime if at any time he recovers his sanity, it being understood that he was not insane at the time the crime was committed. His one hope of escape from the penalty of his deed is based upon the following excerpt from chapter 221, revised laws of Massachusetts: "If it appears to the satisfaction of the governor and council that a convict under sentence of death has become insane, the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, may from time to time for stated periods respite the execution of said sentence until it appears to their satisfaction that the convict is no longer insane."

SEVEN AT WHIPPING POST

Wife Beater First Offender of the Kind to Be Lashed.

Wilmington, Del., May 13.—The first wife beater to be whipped at the post at Greenbank was Stanislaus Ogorzelskie, who received twenty lashes on his bare back.

There were six other victims of the cat-tails, all having been convicted of larceny. Ogorzelskie beat his wife, who was obliged to support their family, because his supper was not ready. He will also serve three months in jail.

The others whipped were James and Joseph Butler, James Butcher and Thomas Palmer, ten lashes each, and William H. Thomas and Clinton Hale, negroes, twenty lashes each.

Kills Wife and Cuts Own Throat.

Baltimore, May 13.—After killing his wife with a razor, Alexander Krawczykowsky slashed his mother-in-law, who interrupted his own efforts at suicide and then severely wounded his brother-in-law, who had come to the rescue of the others. The slayer then cut his own throat and may die. Although the wife knew his intention and made a game fight for her life she received a fatal cut across the throat before she could escape from his grasp.

Two Girls Killed in Smash-Up.

Warren, Minn., May 13.—Lou Tiedt, of Argyle, Minn., and Anna Misner, of Euclid, Minn., were instantly killed in an automobile accident at Argyle when the machine was struck by a locomotive. Miss L. E. Misner was probably fatally injured, and Victor Tiedt, the driver, was badly bruised about the body.

Nice Meat Balls.

Take a quantity of cold meat sufficient for a meal, scraps of roasts or fried beef that has become dry, run through food chopper, season with salt and pepper, nutmeg and allspice; soak about one-third as much stale white bread in cold milk, press out, and mix with the meat. Add beaten egg, one egg is enough for three persons, and lump of butter size of a walnut; mix thoroughly and roll into balls; fry in hot lard. Pile in pyramid on a flat dish to serve.

Convictions.

A man's religious convictions may keep him out of church, but he never permits his political convictions to stand in the way when he has a chance to get into a political office.

PRICES OF FOOD AT HIGHEST POINT

Present Level is the Highest Ever Reached.

New York, May 13.—Prices of commodities have reached the highest point ever touched in the records kept by Bradstreet's, which for years has tabulated prices of all classes of commodities, and found an "index number," which hits a carefully compiled average of prices, month by month.

The figure for May 1 shows an index number of 92.746, a figure which exceeds any previous figure during the twenty years that the index number has been compiled. It shows a rise in prices of 1.9 per cent since April 1 of this year, and a rise of 9.7 per cent since a year ago. The previous high record, made Jan. 1, 1910, was 92.310. "Comparison with May 1, 1909," says Bradstreet's Journal, "reveals an increase of 11.7 per cent, while contrast with the like date in 1908, when quotations were suffering from the effects of economic depression, displays an advance of 16.4 per cent."

FAMOUS FEUDIST DEAD

Ed Callahan, Who Was Shot From Ambush, Dies of Wound.

Lexington, Ky., May 13.—Ed Callahan, shot from ambush last Thursday morning while working in his store at Crockettville, died of his wounds at the Witherspoon hospital at Buckhorn, in Breathitt county. Callahan was shot through the left lung, and at first it was thought he would recover, the ball having passed entirely through his body and the wound had drained well.

Last Friday pneumonia set in and he continued to grow worse. The famous feudist made his will and gave a statement of his belief as to the identity of his assassins to the members of his family gathered about him. The names he divulged to them, however, are kept secret.

TAFT SIGNS PENSION BILL

Measure Increasing Payments Becomes Law Just Before Midnight.

Washington, May 13.—The president signed the increased pension bill in the executive offices at the White House.

The bill as finally agreed to carries an increase of $35,000,000 for pensions during the first year of its operation. During the first three years its increased payments to veterans will average $22,000,000.

Kills Himself Before Hundreds.

Newark, N. J., May 13.—While seated on a bench in Branch Brook park, where hundreds of persons were watching a base ball game, Charles A. Herth, sixty-eight years old, placed a revolver at his forehead and killed himself. In a note addressed to the coroner, Herth said he was penniless and in poor health. He requested that his body be cremated and said that it was his desire that no religious services be held.

To Stain White Kid Black.

Simple treatment with solution of iron sulphate or copperas will dye leather black. Acetate of iron may also be used with advantage. The leather might first be mordanted with a solution of logwood extract diluted with a little alcohol, applied several times till the deepest tint is obtained, also is a stain used for coloring white kid black. It should be applied with a brush, the kid held on a form to keep its shape, and the leather should be rubbed with a soft cloth while drying to soften the fibre. Any of these stains applied thoroughly to give the darkest tint will blacken light leather articles sufficiently to prolong their service, though, of course, failing to achieve results entirely like the new article.

To Cleanse Feathers.

To clean feathers from their own animal oil, steep them in a bath of one gallon of water mixed with one pound of lime; stir the mass well to expose all evenly to the purifying agents, then pour off the water, and give the feathers several good rinsings in clear cold water. To clean feathers from dust or dirt simply wash them in a bath of hot soap-suds and rinse in hot water. To free them from any taint boil them in a loose porous case, using a little ammonia and dissolved soap in the water. Rinse freely in hot water and dry in a current of air in the sack in which they were cleansed.

MYRON T. HERRICK TO GET CORDIAL GREETING

Myron T. Herrick, the new American ambassador to France, is assured a cordial welcome in Paris. His reputation as a clever and genial man of the world and as a brilliant lawyer already has preceded him. Mrs. Herrick also is described as one of the most distinguished women in the United States. Paris takes with particular kindness to American ambassadors, who invariably are the best type of virile men across the Atlantic. Generally possessed of great wealth, and having wives with social gifts, these diplomatic representatives are distinguished for their unofficial activity. The embassy house in the Rue Francois is the center of the American life of Paris, the rallying point for a dozen enterprises for the good of the expatriated citizen.

American shops and institutions occupy the best sites on the boulevards, and American dollars obtain for their owners the best hotel accommodations in the city. Hotels, indeed, are built now on the American plan. The result is a loss in "atmosphere," but a gain in sanitation.

American ambassadors, by their open hospitality and readiness to serve their countrymen in every capacity—the embassy has the look sometimes of a tourists' office—obtain an influence which extends far beyond the diplomatic field. The old idea that the diplomat was a species of spy, charged with sending secret information to his country, has entirely departed under the daylight methods of Uncle Sam's emissary. Ability to make an amusing after-dinner speech and to wheedle around the tariff is of more account in this new game of diplomacy than the most Machiavellian tortuousness or Bismarckian iron-fistedness.

As a matter of politics there is no reason why France and America should not be on the best of terms. They have no quarrel, nor are they likely to have one, except over boots, or perfume, or some other article of transatlantic exchanges. Statues to Lafayette adorn the city, and a faint, romantic aroma still clings to the former abiding place of Paul Jones. American artists abound and carry off many of the popular suffrages of the salon; the "quarter" swarms with the sons and daughters of Columbia, learning everything from poker work to painting, and American singers make constant debuts at the opera.

PRINCE OF WALES IN COURSE OF PREPARATION

The process of preparing the young prince of Wales for the duties of his position continues to keep the young man very busy.

Only a few days ago he left London for Paris, where he will stay for four months as the guest of Marchioness de Breteuil, the daughter of the late William T. Garner, who was vice-commander of the New York Yacht club.

Already the prince is a good French and German scholar, and this visit is intended to further improve his accent. Afterward he will go to Germany to increase his efficiency in that language.

In September he will matriculate at Oxford university and take up his residence there, after which he will be appointed to a crack cavalry regiment, thus adding military knowledge to his naval training.

These educational arrangements are on the initiative of his grandmother, Queen Alexandra, who has long made a friend of Marchioness de Breteuil, who married in 1891 Marquis Henri Le Penitier Breteuil, on whom King Edward conferred the Star and Cross of a knight commander of the Victorian order.

The young prince has as companions while in Paris the two sons of the marchioness, Francois and Joseph Cullen de Breteuil.

MEDICAL ADVERTISING

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

Hundreds of Gettysburg Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsements, the public expression of Gettysburg people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Gettysburg reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following: Mrs. Frank Tawney, 28 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in my family with excellent results. I publicly endorsed them two years ago and hold just as high an opinion of them at this time. A member of my family was afflicted with kidney trouble for years and probably inherited it. This person suffered a great deal from pains in his back and sides and was unable to control the kidney secretions. A cold always aggravated the complaint. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a bottle of the People's Drug Store and their use effected a complete cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE ONLY SURE RHEUMATISM CURE ON EARTH

If you suffer from rheumatic agony or have a relative or friend who is tortured, read the following thankful letter, then go to The People's Drug Store and get a 50-cent bottle of RHEUMA. They sell it on money back plan.

One year ago I had a most severe attack of rheumatism, lasting over nine weeks. Two bottles of RHEUMA cured me so completely I have never had the slightest return of the disease. We have a friend, an old lady, living here who had rheumatism for more than a year, and she too was cured. Her joints were all stiffened and swollen, and she had previously tried everything for rheumatism she had ever heard of. George M. Ross, 398 N. Warren Ave., Saginaw, Mich., July 27, 1911.

RHEUMA starts to drive the uric acid from your system within a few hours after the first dose. It acts on kidneys, stomach, liver and bladder and brings blessed relief in one or two days.

MONEY BACK

Here's Some Talk on Square Deals Lines

Fifty cents; that's all, for a box of MI-O-NA stomach tablets that will bring a smile to your dyspeptic countenance ten minutes after the first dose. And The People's Drug Store states that if MI-O-NA doesn't drive the misery of indigestion or banish stomach distress of any kind, you can have your money back.

This guarantee applies to the following ailments, gas, acidity, heaviness, distress after eating, fermentation, heartburn, waterbrash, belching, sourness, pain in stomach, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness

CHAPTER XXXIII.

A Crisis at the Court-House.

Just at daybreak Yancy was roused by the pressure of a hand on his shoulder, and opening his eyes saw that the judge was bending over him.

"Dress!" he said briefly. "There's every prospect of trouble—get your rifle and come with me!"

Yancy noted that this prospect of trouble seemed to afford the judge a pleasurable sensation; indeed, he had quite lost his former air of somber and suppressed melancholy.

"I let you sleep, thinking you needed the rest," the judge went on. "But ever since midnight we've been on the verge of riot and possible bloodshed. They've arrested John Murrell—it's claimed he's planned a servile rebellion! A man named Hues, who had wormed his way into his confidence, made the arrest. He carried Murrell into Memphis, but the local magistrates, intimidated, most likely, declined to have anything to do with holding him. In spite of this, Hues managed to get his prisoner lodged in jail, but along about midnight the situation began to look serious. Folks were swarming into town armed to the teeth, and Hues fetched Murrell across country to Raleigh."

"Yes," said Yancy.

"Well, the sheriff has refused to take Murrell into custody. Hues has him down at the court-house, but whether or not he is going to be able to hold him is another matter!"

Yancy and Hannibal had dressed by this time, and the judge led the way from the house. The Scratch Hiller looked about him. Across the street a group of men, the greater number of whom were armed, stood in front of Peggie's tavern. Glancing in the direction of the court-house, he observed that the square before it held other groups. But what impressed him more was the ominous silence that was everywhere. At his elbow the judge was breathing deep.

"We are face to face with a very deplorable condition, Mr. Yancy. Court was to sit here today, but Judge Morrow and the public prosecutor have left town, and as you see, Murrell's friends have gathered for a rescue. There's a sprinkling of the better element—but only a sprinkling. I saw Judge Morrow this morning at four o'clock—I told him I would oblige myself to present for his consideration evidence of a striking and sensational character, evidence which would show conclusively that Murrell should be held to await the action of the next grand jury—this was after a conference with Hues—I guaranteed his safety. Sir, the man refused to listen to me! He showed himself utterly devoid of any feeling of public duty." The bitter sense of failure and futility was leaving the judge. The situation made its demands on that basic faith in his own powers which remained imbedded in his character.

They had entered the court-house square. On the steps of the building Betts was arguing loudly with Hues, who stood in the doorway, rifle in hand.

"Maybe you don't know this is county property?" the sheriff was saying. "And that you have taken unlawful possession of it for an unlawful purpose? I am going to open them doors—a passel of strangers can't keep folks out of a building their own money has bought and paid for!" While he was speaking, the judge had pushed his way through the crowd to the foot of the steps.

"That was very nicely said, Mr. Betts," observed the judge. He smiled widely and sweetly. The sheriff gave him a hostile glare. "Do you know that Morrow has left town?" the judge went on.

"I ain't got nothin' to do with Judge Morrow. It's my duty to see that this building is ready for him when he's a mind to open court in it."

"You are willing to assume the responsibility of throwing open these doors?" inquired the judge affably.

"I shorley am," said Betts. "Why, some of these folks are our leading people!"

The judge turned to the crowd, and spoke in a tone of excessive civility. "Just a word, gentlemen!—the sheriff is right; it is your court-house, and you should not be kept out of it. No doubt there are some of you whose presence in this building will sooner or later be urgently desired. We are going to let all who wish to enter, but I beg you to remember that there will be five men inside whose prejudices are all in favor of law and order."

He pushed past Hues and entered the court-house, followed by Yancy and Hannibal. "Well let 'em in where I can talk to 'em," he said almost gaily. "Besides, they'll come in anyhow when the doors open, so there's no sense in exciting them."

In the court-house, Murrell, bound hand and foot, was seated between Carrington and the Earl of Lambeth in the little railed-off space below the judge's bench. Fear and suffering had blanched his unshaven cheeks and given a wild light to his deeply sunken eyes. At sight of Yancy a smothered exclamation broke from his lips; he had supposed this man dead these many months!

Hues had abandoned his post, and the crowd, suddenly grown clamorous, stormed the narrow entrance. One of the doors, borne from its hinges, went down with a crash. The judge, a fierce light flashing from his eyes, turned to Yancy.

"No matter what happens, this fellow Murrell is not to escape—if he calls on his friends to rescue him he is to be shot!"

The hall was filling with swearing, struggling men, the floor shook beneath their heavy tread; then they burst into the court-room and saluted Murrell with a great shout. But Murrell, bound, in rags, and silent, his lips frozen in a wolfish grin, was a depressing sight, and the boldest felt something of his unrestrained lawlessness go from him.

Less noisy now, the crowd spread itself out among the benches or swarmed up into the tiny gallery at the back of the building. Man after man had hurried forward, intent on passing beyond the railing, but each had encountered the judge, formidable and forbidding, and had turned aside. Gradually the many pairs of eyes roving over the little group surrounding the outlaw focussed themselves on Slocum Price. It was in unconscious recognition of that moral force which was his, a tribute to the grim dignity of his unshaken courage; what he would do seemed worth considering.

He was charmed to hear his name pass in a whisper from lip to lip. Well, it was time they knew him! He squared his ponderous shoulder and made a gesture commanding silence. Battered, shabby and debauched, he was like some old war horse who sniffs the odor of battle that the wind incontinently brings to his nostrils.

"Don't let him speak!" cried a voice, and a tumult succeeded.

Cool and indomitable the judge waited for it to subside. He saw that the color was stealing back into Murrell's face. The outlaw was feeling that he was a leader not overthrown; these were his friends and followers, his safety was their safety, too. In a full in the storm of sound the judge attempted to make himself heard, but his words were lost in the angry roar that descended on him.

"Don't let him speak! Kill him! Kill him!"

A score of men sprang to their feet and from all sides came the click of rifle and pistol hammers as they were drawn to the full cock. The judge's fate seemed to rest on a breath. He swung about on his heel and gave a curt nod to Yancy and Cavendish, who, falling back a step, tossed their guns to their shoulders and covered Murrell. A sudden hush grew up out of the tumult; the cries, angry and feeble, dwindled to a murmur, and a dead pall of silence rested on the crowded room.

The very taste of triumph was in the judge's mouth. Then came a commotion at the back of the building.

A ripple of comment, and Colonel Fentress elbowed his way through the crowd. At sight of his enemy the judge's face went from white to red, while his eyes blazed; but for the moment the force of his emotions left him speechless. Here and there, as he advanced, Fentress recognized a friend and bowed coolly to the right and left.

"What does this ridiculous mockery mean?" he demanded harshly. "Mr. Sheriff, as a member of the bar, I protest! Why don't you clear the building?" He did not wait for Betts to answer him, but continued. "Where is this man Hues?"

"Yonder, colonel, by the captain," said Betts.

"I have a warrant for his arrest. You will take him into custody."

"Wait!" cried the judge. "I represent Mr. Hues. I desire to see that warrant!"

But Fentress ignored him. He addressed the crowded benches.

"Gentlemen, it is a serious matter forcibly to seize a man without authority from the courts and expose him to the danger of mob violence—Mr. Hues will learn this before we have done with him."

Instantly there was a noisy demonstration that swelled into a burst of applause, which quickly spent itself. The struggle seemed to have narrowed to an individual contest for supremacy between Fentress and the judge. On the edge of the railed-off space they confronted each other: the colonel, a tall, well-cared for presence; the judge, shabby and unkempt. For a moment their eyes met, while the judge's face purpled and paled, and purpled again. The silence deepened. Fentress' thin lips opened, twitched, but no sound came from them; then his glance wavered and fell. He turned away.

"Mr. Sheriff!" he called sharply. "All right, colonel!"

"Take your man into custody," ordered Fentress. As he spoke he handed the warrant toward Betts, who looked at it, grinned, and stepped toward Hues. He would have pushed the judge aside had not that gentleman, bowing civilly, made way for him.

"In my profound respect for the law and properly constituted authority I yield to no man, not even to Colonel Fentress," he said, with a gracious gesture. "I would not place the slightest obstacle in the way of its sanctioned manifestation. Colonel Fentress comes here with that high sanction." He bowed again ceremoniously to the colonel. "I repeat, I respect his dependence upon the law! He whirled suddenly. "Cavendish—Yancy—Carrington—I call upon you to arrest John Murrell! I do this by virtue of the authority vested in me as a judge of the United States federal court. His crime—a mere trifle, my friends—passing counterfeited money! Colonel Fentress will inform you that this is a violation of the law which falls within my jurisdiction," and he beamed blandly on Fentress.

"It's a lie!" cried the colonel.

"You'll answer for that later!" said the judge, with abrupt austerity of tone.

"For all we know you may be some fugitive from justice!—Why, your name isn't Price!"

"Are you sure of that?" asked the judge quickly.

"You're an impostor! Your name is Turberville!"

"Permit me to relieve your apprehensions. It is Turberville who has received the appointment. Would you like to examine my credentials?—I have them by me—no? I am obliged for your introduction. It could not have come at a more timely moment."

The judge seemed to dismiss Fentress contemptuously. Once more he faced the packed benches. "Put down your weapons!" he commanded. "This man Murrell will not be released. At the first effort at rescue he will be shot where he sits—we have sworn it—his plotting is at an end." He stalked nearer the benches. "Not one chance in a thousand remains to him. Either he dies here or he lives to be taken before every judge in the state, if necessary, until we find one with courage to try him! Make no mistake—it will best conserve the ends of justice to allow the state court's jurisdiction in this case; and I pledge myself to furnish evidence which will start him well on his road to the gallows!"

The judge, a tremendous presence, stalked still nearer the benches. Outfacing the crowd, a sense of the splendor of the part he was being called upon to play flowed through him like some elixir; he felt that he was transcending himself, that his inspiration was drawn from the hidden springs of the spirit, and that he could neither falter nor go astray. "You don't know what you are meddling with! This man has plotted to lay the south in ruins—he has been arming the negroes—it is incredible that you should all know this—to such I say, go home and thank God for your escape! For the others"—his shaggy brows met in a menacing frown—"if they force our hand we will toss them John Murrell's dead carcass—that's our answer to their challenge!"

He strode out among the gun muzzles which hovered where they still covered him. He was thinking of Mahaffy—Mahaffy, who had said he was still a man to be reckoned with. For the comfort of his own soul he was proving it.

"Do you know what a servile insurrection means?—you men who have wives and daughters, have you thought of their fate? Of the monstrous savagery to which they would be exposed? Do you believe he could limit and control it? Look at him! Why, he has never had a consideration outside of his own safety, and yet he expects you to risk your necks to save his! He would have left the state before the first blow was struck—his business was all down river—but we are going to keep him here to answer for his crimes! The law, as implacable as it is impartial, has put its mark on him—the shadow in which he sits is the shadow of the gallows!"

The judge paused, but the only sound in that expectant silence was the heavy breathing of men. He drew his unwieldy form erect, while his voice rumbled on, aggressive and threatening in its every intonation.

"You are here to defend something that no longer exists. Your organization is wrecked, your signals and passwords are known, your secrets have become public property—I can even produce a list of your members; there are none of you who do not stand in imminent peril—yet understand, I have no wish to strike at those who have been misled or coerced into joining Murrell's band!"

The judge's sudden old face glowed now with the magnanimity of his sentiments. "But I have no feeling of mercy for your leaders, none for Murrell himself. Put down your guns!—you can only kill us after we have killed Murrell—but you can't kill the law! If the arch conspirator dies in this room and hour, on whose head will the punishment fall?" He swung round his ponderous arm in a sweeping gesture and shook a fat but expressive forefinger in the faces of those nearest him. "On yours—and yours—and yours!"

Across the space that separated them the judge grinned his triumph at his enemy. He had known when Fentress entered the room that a word or a sign from him would precipitate a riot, but he knew now that neither this word nor this sign would be given. Then quite suddenly he strode down the aisle, and foot by foot Fentress yielded ground before his advance. A murderous light flashed from the judge's bloodshot eyes and his right hand was stealing toward the frayed tails of his coat. "Look out—be's getting ready to shoot!" cried a frightened voice. Instantly by doors and windows the crowd, seized with inexplicable panic, emptied itself into the court-house yard. Fentress was caught up in the rush and borne from the room and from the building. When he reached the graveled space below the steps he turned. The judge was in the doorway, the center of a struggling group; Mr. Bowen, the minister, Mr. Saul and Mr. Wesley were vainly seeking to pluck him arm.

"Draw—damn you!" he roared at Fentress, as he wrenched himself free, and the crowd swayed to right and left as Fentress was seen to reach for his pistol.

"Draw, Damn You!" He Roared at Fentress.

Mr. Saul made a last frantic effort to restrain his friend; he seized the judge's arm just as the latter's finger pressed the trigger, and an instant later Fentress staggered back with the judge's bullet in his shoulder.
